

Fiber Optic Junction Box Patent

Overview

Prysmian has been granted a patent for an assembly of sections with optical fibers enclosed in junction boxes, allowing for easy optical connection between sections. The box cover and the base together form a sealed cavity, the main body disk assembly is arranged in the sealed. An optical fiber junction box includes a wall having an entry slot at least partially defined by spaced apart edges; and a conduit for enclosing an optical fiber having a plurality of radial grooves, wherein an outer diameter of at least one of the radial grooves is approximately equal to a. A FTTH ("Fiber To The Home") network is an optical access network providing a number of end customers with broadband communication services from operators, i. with services requiring data transmission at a very high rate, for example of some Mbit/s.
